

New Blog with my Friend Carol Lynch Williams and others

Contributed by Ann Dee Ellis
Monday, 07 December 2009

I never blog but I want to. I really want to. I was talking to Carol (of The Chosen Onefame) and she said she had the same problem. So we decided to see if we could guilt each other into it by blogging together. We're going to have readers of the week, book reviews, writing exercises with giveaways, author profiles/interviews, guest bloggers and then regular blog posts where I talk about diapers and people.com. I hope we can really do this.

Come see.

If you want to be interviewed/donate a book/have a book reviewed/discuss your personal issues, just let us know. I'm serious about this. [Best Bra-Scene Ever Charlotte, I'm looking at you].

I'm going to try to update my website more and will probably double post my blogs/reader of the week interviews, etc. Please go over there and leave a comment so we are motivated to keep going with this thing. It will be a festive gift for me and Carol.

Okay.
The end.

Throwingupwords.wordpress.com